5.3.1: Student council is active and plays a proactive role in the institutional functioning:

The student council is engaged and aggressive in the institutional functioning. Members of the student council take an active part in the operation of the institution. Students address pressing topics and launch efforts to improve the campus and the community. It is critical that students have the chance to voice their opinions on subjects that are important to them in college. It is also critical that they be heard and encouraged to participate actively in promoting the college's vision and purpose.

Student council is very important in academic and co-curricular activities that take place throughout the year. The student council organizes and initiates various programs such as national day celebrations, festival celebrations, cultural programs, and so forth. The student council takes the lead in preparing numerous programs. Students' problems are addressed by council members. Student council provides students with information about numerous curricular and co-curricular programs. They inform students about various intercollegiate contests, arrange groups for cultural programs, create entries, and distribute registration forms to the appropriate colleges.

The student council encourages students to participate in college programs. The student council maintains track of vouchers for admission fees, costume rentals for cultural events, and so forth. The student council takes the effort to keep the campus grounds clean. They also take the lead in organizing resource personnel or choosing centers for community service or a location for a seven-day NSS camp. They communicate the difficulties of pupils to staff members. Student council actively participates in academic enrichment programs for student teachers as well as programs organized by various committee members. Student council gathers data from all students in order to allocate schools for practice teaching, learning centers, or community service. Members of the council take the lead in organizing sporting and cultural events, from planning to implementation. During the pandemic COVID-19, the student council participated in a variety of actions, including raising public awareness. During the pandemic, student council members alerted instructors about the challenges that students were experiencing, such as a lack of electronic gadgets. as well as network concerns. Following up with students properly aided in addressing concerns linked to ICT enabled education.

During the epidemic, the student council and other students worked hard to raise awareness via digital media. The actions were carried out on the internet platforms throughout the shutdown time. During the lockdown, several tasks were carried out, including as mask and sanitizer production. Along with photographs of pupils holding play cards depicting social concerns, awareness photo albums were also prepared. There was one online quiz about COVID-19. Also There was one webinar on Zoom App teaching and learning. They made good use of their time and raised a lot of awareness in society by learning a new normal at COVID. In all activities, the Student Council takes the lead in the planning, organization, and implementation of each program.
